

DIPLOMACY TRAINING PROGRAM

Building Resilience for Human Rights and Democracy Through Capacity Building

Calling all DTP alumni, partners, trainers and friends for a special DTP event at the International Civil Society Week - Bangkok Thailand

Established by President Jose Ramos-Horta in 1990, the Diplomacy Training Program (DTP) has been developing and delivering human rights capacity building programs in Asia and the Pacific for 35 years. The DTP community now includes over 3500 DTP alumni, trainers and partners – working together for human rights in different movements, organisations and countries. The guidance of partners, alumni and trainers has helped DTP to meet the changing needs of human rights and democracy movements.

DTP is inviting its alumni, trainers and partners and others to this special workshop – to meet, reflect and share, and help guide thinking on the role and place of human rights capacity building in these challenging times. Please join us.
