

Invitation to groundbreaking new West Papua film “PIG FEAST”

The Diplomacy Training Program (DTP) and DTP Indonesia alumni are pleased to host a special first screening of Pig Feast, an urgent expose of the world’s largest deforestation project, filmed in remote West Papua. This event is supported by Amnesty International.

Made by Papua’s leading filmmakers and journalists, the film reveals how government and corporate entities – collaborating with military and religious groups – advance international and national goals of ‘food security’ and ‘energy transition’ at the expense of Indigenous communities and landscapes.

Pig Feast documents the resistance of the Marind, Muyu, Awyu and Mandobo Indigenous communities whose ancestral lands have been chosen as ground zero for the largest forest conversion project in modern history – turning 2.5 million hectares of tropical forest into industrial plantations – a form of colonialism in our time.

Renowned journalists (and DTP alumni) Executive Producer Victor Mambor and Director Dandhy Laksono will discuss the film after it is screened.

DTP has been working to build the knowledge, skills and networks of human rights defenders in Asia and the Pacific since 1990.
